Dietz's Diamond Oil.

WE NOW OFFER TO THE PUBLIC an full supply of a new article of
KEROSENE OIL,
Which we warrant to be a perfect safe
Superior to any other Oil ever introduced in Oregon. Each can is marked. It does not explode, does not chill in the coldest weather, and will Burn Light and Burn Longer than any other Oil in use.

Among the many advantages of this KEROSENE OIL over other oils are: First the strongest NON-EXPLOSIVE and can be used with perfect safety in all kinds of LAMPS. Second, it can be burned in all the different lamps, pleasant smelling, and burns with a clear white brilliant flame. We would call attention to the LIGHT and DARKNESS test. This Oil is tested, and we defy any Coal Oil to stand it when placed in a test with all other Coal Oil or Kerosene as to its superior burning qualities.

In order to prove ourselves agents, Coal Oil is what we have put on the market, cheap and cost, which will be known as

DIETZ'S DIAMOND OIL.

We have now offered for wholesale or retail at 505 Front street,
Between Washington and Stark streets,
And the Depot is 505 Front street,
Seven doors from Mansfield's Auction House, Portland.

MONDAY MORNING JUNE 16 1862

European Interference on the American Continent

Within the last year the events of the rebellion threatening the existence of the national Government have compelled upon us that we have in a measure lost control of many important national matters connected with foreign governments

We are however, tolerably well posted in regard to the late invasion of Mexico by English, Spanish and French troops the object of this invasion, it was announced by the powers, was to secure the payment of the debts due to them people by the Mexican government. Soon after they landed a treaty was made by which the payment of the debts was secured, and first the English and next the Spanish troops hastened out of the country Under pretence that some of the French troops had been assassinated by the Mexicans, the French remained, and at the last accounts were making war upon the established government—and with the object as announced by Almonte, who has declared himself in favor of the measure, to place an Austrian prince on the throne of Mexico

We make no complaint against France for coercing the Mexican government into the payment of the debts due to the citizens of France, but this movement for establishing an Austrian on the throne to be regarded in Mexico—to establish there a despotic government—with the object, as has been stated in letters from Europe, of obtaining the assistance of Austria to the new Italian nation will be regarded in the United States with deep regret as tending to lead to complications that may involve our nation in future wars

Mr Seward has expressed the views of the American Government on this subject, in a circular to the several American Legations abroad. It is dated on the 1st March last. It is based on the supposition that the object of the French, English and Spanish forces is the introduction of a monarchical government into Mexico Mr Seward says he has relied upon the declarations of the governments in question, that this is not their object Here marks upon this point

"Nevertheless, the President considers it his duty to express to the Allies, in all kindness and candor, that a monarchical government established in Mexico in the presence of foreign fleets and armies occupying the waters and the soil of Mexico, has no promise of security or permanence in the same place, that the instability of such an institution would be enhanced if the Archduke were assigned to a person whom to Mexico, that in those circumstances the new government would instantly fall unless sustained by foreign alliances which, under the influence of the first invasion, would be practically the beginning of a permanent policy of armed intervention by monarchical Europe upon this Continent in regard to the system of government generally adopted by the American continent

These views are based upon some knowledge of the opinions and political habits of American society There can be no doubt that in this matter the permanent interests and the sympathies of our country would be on the side of the other American republics

We must not be understood as predicting on this occasion the course of events which may ensue, both in America and in Europe from the steps which the emperor has adopted It is enough to say that, in the words of the President, the emancipation of the American continent from the control of Europe, has been the principal characteristic of the past half century It is not probable that a revolution in the opposite direction can succeed in the age which immediately follows this period and while the population of America increases so rapidly while its resources develop in the same proportion, and while society forms itself conformably to the principles of the American Democratic Government

In the present state of the country Mr Seward is just in resting the case here but it is folly to suppose that a foreign prince can be saddled upon the Mexican nation by the French or any other government, and kept there, unless sustained by the whole military forces of France—a project not likely to be long persisted in

The Argus says We learn that a letter has been received in this city from Colonel Apperson one of the company of Marines from this county in which he states that two men of his company had a difficulty in which one of them was shot in the shoulder by the other killing him. The latter fled to the mountains but was pursued and overtaken, when a fight ensued in which both were killed. It is thought Robinson cannot survive

The ocean steamer may be expected here this evening

LATER FROM THE EAST.

Dates to June 6th.

Gen McClellan's Army—Terrible Loss of the Enemy—Defeat of the Enemy on the Chickahominy—Pursuit of Beauregard's Army—Rebel Lies—The Rebels Expect the Destruction of the Main Army—The Public Opinion of the Rebels—The Department of Missouri—Capture of Memphis Public Stores and Cotton—Advance of Corinth—Skirmishing—The Enemy Driven Back—The Federal Loss—Reinforcements Arrived—Rebel Accounts—Engagement and Proceedings

WASHINGTON June 6th A dispatch received this morning from McClellan says

[illegible] the weather was intensely hot yesterday The Chickahominy rose to a unprecedented height Bridges in White House to the Pamunkey were destroyed All information shows that the rebels suffered terribly in the late battle All sorts conditions of men were impressed to bury the dead and wounded from the field Hotels and private residences were used as hospitals The rebels in most cases burned their dead in large heaps

The enemy commenced shelling our camps from five different points opposite New Bridge to prevent the reconstruction of that work Three of our batteries responded, causing the rebels to retreat after a rapid fire of two hours"

NEW YORK June 6th—The Key West correspondent of the Tribune says the frigate Wyoming has arrived from Vera Cruz with information of the complete defeat of the French, and their retreat to Vera Cruz

CINCINNATI, June 6th Memphis papers of the 4th contain Richmond dispatches to the last which says The carnage in the battle of Saturday and Sunday was dreadful The Yankees lost two to the rebels or [illegible] General Hatch of Tennessee was killed [illegible] that their loss was heavy, and say that the Yankees fought well They claim to have captured three batteries

New Orleans papers of the 31st May, says Flag officer Farragut gunboats had gone down the river and assigned as a reason for this, that there was a panic among the Federal troops which induced the commanders to fall back to the city

CAIRO June 7th—Gen Halleck moved his head quarters to this place today It is reported to be 80,000 strong Hindman is in Arkansas with 11 regiments between Batesville and Oklahoma Advices to the 4th inst from Pope's advance was this side of Corinth Skirmishing daily Mitchell's The enemy is reported to be in force on the south side still fortifying

WASHINGTON June 6th—Advices from a reliable source report floods in the upper Potomac and the Rappahannock, and say that bridges have been carried away The loss of these bridges is considered serious

Specials to the New York papers say A loyal Union officer who was for days in the hands of the rebels at Winchester, Va, gives an account of his treatment by them while there he talked freely with their officers says that they came to look forward to the destruction of their great armies as a thing sure to happen, sooner or later and made up their minds to take to the bush and wage a guerilla warfare, in which they said they felt themselves at home All the officers impressed our informant as to a man devoted heart and soul to the cause of the rebellion and he thought most of the soldiers seemed to have their hearts in the business

Minister Marsh has notified the State Department that the Turkish Government has issued an order refusing Confederate privateers admission to any of the ports of the Ottoman Empire in accordance with the treaty of Paris, signed in 1856

BUFFALO June 6—It is stated that the Hundredth New York Regiment was mostly cut to pieces and captured in the battle before Richmond

ST LOUIS June 6—By order of Gen Halleck, the State of Missouri except the counties of Pemiscot, New Madrid and Mississippi will constitute the Military Department of Missouri, under command of Gen Scofield

ROLLA June 6—Colonel White Sawyer Gardening the rebel army and James Mason Secretary of State under Clark Jackson, together with about twenty or many rebels, were captured at Nashville a few days since

Advices from General Curtis' army in Arkansas say that scouting parties in the vicinity of Little Rock have been very successful lately in breaking up rebel camps and running down guerrillas

Major Bowen commanding a detachment of the Third Iowa cavalry, on Tuesday fell upon a rebel camp fifty miles west of Batesville scattering the rebels in all directions and capturing much camp and garrison equipage many prisoners and a large number of horses

EASTON, (Penn) June 6—The floods in both rivers is receding

CAIRO June 6—A steamer has just arrived from the flotilla bringing news of the evacuation of fort Wright and its occupation by the Federals From a person who visited the fort we learn that there are still twelve guns there a number of them being spiked The buildings filled with commissary stores were burned also the cotton of which the breastworks of the fort were constructed Pluggun carriages barracks and every article of use were committed to the flames One large mortar recently brought from the South, is burnted, also another ten inch mortar

There is no evidence of the presence of the enemy at Fulton works The enemy kept up a heavy firing on Wednesday night for the purpose of covering their retreat After leaving the fort the enemy destroyed the fine pontoon bridge across Hatchie river which was constructed some weeks since

We have reports that the gunboats are steaming down the river No transports are expected but any point below Memphis will be [illegible] the flotilla has by the time reached Memphis

EASTON (Penn) June 6—Partial returns of Tuesday's election have been received in this city from Allen Apperson one of the county Marshals from this county in which he states that two men of his company had a difficulty in which one of them was shot in the shoulder by the other killing him. The latter fled to the mountains but was pursued and overtaken when a fight ensued in which both were killed. It is thought Robinson cannot survive

THE OREGONIAN may be had at the Periodical Depots, and at Charles Burrett's, Front street.

BLOOD AGAIN.—Contrary to expectation, in violence of all confidence, we are compelled to chronicle the fearful increase that the river is rising, the waters have increased about an inch within the last 24 hours. The condition of our principal street north from Ankar street is sad indeed, the store and ware houses, hotels, dwellings, shops, and saloons are truly distressing to behold, many of the lower floors of which are covered from one to ten inches deep in water. As before remarked by us, the flood will be a great deal of damage, and must inevitably prove very disasterous to nearly all merchants and traders who have stores filled with valuable goods which are liable to be damaged by mildew, or soiled by mud, besides the tearing up of floors and sidewalks, and the entire drowning out of gardens and fruit orchards. The forcible suspension of business at this time will also seriously affect many of our citizens, as they have invested large sums in supplies for the Winter trade, much of which has doubtless been obtained upon borrowed capital at heavy interest.

But we still hope for the best, and would encourage our friends never to dispair. Don high-topped boots and a firm determination and wade right through.

A VERY PICTURESQUE.—We understand that Messrs. Buchtel & Cardwell have taken several photographic pictures of the streets of the city that are at present covered with water, in which are seen large sized row-boats, one of which is the beautiful boat Canon, belonging to the Portland Boat Club, all of which are full manned and trimmed and in the act of giving "a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull together," for a jolly day's ride. This might be accomplished were it not for the floating plank that materially obstructs the passage. However, we noticed yesterday several of these boats had succeeded in passing the corner of Second and Stark streets, and another landed a large load of passengers on the side-walk in front of Messrs. Cahill's Drug Store on Saturday last. Should the water raise a few inches more, rowing and boats will be in demand, several hundred pairs of the latter have already been sold during the past week.

—De Mun who was stabbed by Lincoln Taylor's Restaurant one evening last week died on Saturday evening last. An inquest was held upon the body, under the direction of Justice Barr, and the jury rendered a verdict that death was caused by the infliction of a knife wound, supposed to have been in the hands of said Lincoln. The evidence produced on trial was not sufficient to satisfy the jury in deciding positively as to who committed the deed. Lincoln, the individual who no doubt inflicted the wound, has not yet been heard from, having made good his escape. We are not advised whether a reward has been offered for his apprehension or not. De Mun was buried yesterday morning. Another goes another victim of rash and vindictive justice to his long home, while his murderer will, in all probability, will be allowed to go "scot free," to commit a similar deed up on some other person, perhaps a less pretext.

ARRIVED.—The bark Alaska, Capt. Rich, from San Francisco, arrived at Knott's wharf, foot of Taylor street, yesterday morning, at 8 o'clock. She brings dates to 7 days from San Francisco. She brings a large lot of assorted merchandise, also a few hundred tons of railroad iron. The following is her manifest:

Allen Bros., 314 packages; Levi & Co., 4; M. Seller, 7; J. Seller & Co., 419; Knapp Stull & Co., 117; Chittenden & Dolson, 2; Haas Bros., 400; (R) Allen & Lewis, 1; Brown & Bros., 155; A. BILLIARDS.—By reference to new advertisement it will be seen that Mr. Jacob Strubler has everything in the line of billiards that could be desired, and we doubt not will dispose of the same at fair prices. Those wishing such articles should give him a call.

—Wes has a large addition to his stock coming in the bark Industry which is now discharging as part of her freight at Vancouver, and may be expected here in a day or two.

—Work has been commenced at the Cascade end of the railroad round the falls, at the Dalles City.

Locked In!

OR, THE ACCIDENTAL INTERVIEW

A MATRIMONIAL TALE

"Thank you, no," said the lady, hastily withdrawing it "I permit no interference with what is entirely my own property"

The face of the husband turned red and the wife felt the cruel pleasure of victory

"Better put a little dry soap on it—best thing in the world for a scald" said he "I have some in my bag"

"You are very kind," answered his wife touched with the attention

"Not at all, Maria," said Thirlby follow ing up his success with the Christian name "I am something of a traveler now and am always provided with these little comforts—I should say necessaries"

He opened a black leather bag scraped some soap on to a clean white handkerchief and applied it to his wife's hand tenderly and carefully He saw the wedding ring shine over the white skin, and gave over so small a sigh as he tied a knot just above it

"Poor little hand!" said he, caressingly as he bent his head down towards it

"Thank you, that will do very well," re marked his wife, putting it under the table

"Nothing like soft soap!" said he smiling

"No," answered the lady, with placid dig nity

"How the boat pitches! As you are wound ed, shall I do the honors?" said he

"You are very gallant," she replied

"Wasn't I always"? he asked, as he rest at ed himself

"Always," replied the wife, but not to me"

"My dear Maria"——

"Pardon me, you are forgetting yourself"

"Not at all," returned the husband, stoutly "I repeat it Why were you and I so un happy together?"

The vessel strained and pitched as he spoke and orders were given on deck, and the wind howled, and the rain beat down on the sky light above them.

"There's a storm coming on," he remarked, rather unnecessarily.

"I am afraid there is," replied she

"But answer my question!"

"What question,?"

"Oh, you know," said he irritably "I asked you why we were always so unhappy together?"

"I might as well ask you why you were always so unkind?" said Mrs Thirlby

"I recognize you here," said the husband, "you answer one question by asking another I remember you always did." It used to irri tate me."

"Everything I did used to irritate you!" interrupted the wife, calm and provoking

"When it was irritating," amended Mr Thirlby.

"You found it so," said the lady, with feminine emphasis

"Of course it was me," returned the hus band; "I was the villian—husbands always are!"

"No; I was the termagent—wives always are!" repeated the lady.

"My love, you were always good, and right, and pious, and virtuous," said Thirlby, his love of sarcasm overcoming his better sense "You were always provokingly proper—all broken-hearted submission, mildness, meek ness, and downcast eyes, as if advertising to the world: 'Look here! my monster is break ing my heart—not that I complain—oh, dear me! I am too good for that He is killing me, and I am rather glad he is. I am so angelic and resigned!'"

Mrs. Thirlby knit her brows, for a moment she hesitated between quitting the cabin and replying. Temper triumphed, and she spoke

"If so, you pursued the opposite tactics," said she. "You were all smiles, frankness, gallity and good humor—to the world, a sort of proclamation of See what a fine, generous, open-hearted fellow I am, and yet my wife—my wicked wife—is miserable with me! Oh, thank heaven, I am not your wife now!"

The ship lurched again, and Mrs Thirlby's tea cup fell to the floor, but without breaking

"You needn't get into a passion," said her husband, "nor upset the tea things, you're not at home now, you know."

"I did not upset it," said the lady angrily

"Yes you did!"

"No I didn't!"

"Yes you did!"

"I did not sir!" repeated the lady, tapping the table authoritatively with her undamaged hand, and so knocking off another cup, which broke into a dozen pieces.

"There!" said her husband, picking up the fragments carefully, and arranging them be fore her, "perhaps you didn't break that ot ther!"

It would be impossible to describe the ex tent to which handsome Mrs Thirlby was put out by this accident Her face darkened, and without losing its beauty looked a thunder storm—the ox-eyed Juno wrathful with Jupi ter.

Thirlby tried to walk the cabin "Time has not subdued that awful temper, then?" said he.

"Not the recollection of your ill usage," she replied. "Neither ten nor ten hundred year can do that."

"Ten hundred!" he remarked, 'you'll be a fine old lady then."

"And so will you," retorted the wife; "you are more than forty now"

"Well, if I am," answered the husband, angrily, "you're five and thirty—no chicken either!"

One of the chief reasons that matrimonial differences are so bitter is, that each party is so well informed of the enemy's weak side

"Why, positively you're bald!" said Mrs Thirlby, who had not before perceived the shining scalp in the center of her husband's cranium; "yes, quite bald at the top!"

Mr Thirlby turned white with passion—he was a very vain man—and walked up to her as if about to make some overwhelming reply Unfortunately he saw that her hair was as black, as lustrous and as rich as ever

His wife guessed his intention and said aggravatingly "Poor old man, was he bald then?"

"You know you were always a beauty," sneered the husband

Mrs. Thirlby rose from her seat and bowed as if she said "I know it," which irritated her husband more than ever

"As lovely as afflicted," continued he

"At all events," replied the lady, that Mrs"

"Silence, madam!" thundered the hus band. "You have too often repeated that la dy's name, and I forbid"

CERTIFICATE.—Prompted by an honest desire of my heart, I wish to lay before the public a case which deserves commendation not only as an act of scientific skill, but that of humanity also About two years ago, I suddenly, and from causes unknown to me, was seized with a fit of epilepsy, which, owing to my inability to meet the expense consequent upon a thorough medical treatment, and the discouragement which I met with on attempting it, soon became such (I was then led to believe) as to defy the skill of any physician I was frequently while in pursuit of my calling, thrown down to the ground without the slightest warning, and with such insensible to the agonies, I yet despised the miseries of my life and soon learned to look upon them as would render assistance or shelter me from danger or sufferings I sought to prolong the existence of my miserable While in this state and having, previous to my affliction, tasted the sweets of life I once more was induced to attempt seeking aid I applied to, and by recommendation, called upon Dr L J Czapkay I told him of my circumstances, and I my inability to reward him for his services; regarding which however he at once undertook my case, and with the blessing of God I was once more restored to perfect health Unable to reward him for the boon which I enjoy at present and yet conscious of my indebtedness, I consider it but to myself and all afflicted, to make the case public, in order that those in need of medical advice may find a physician with whom every confidence can be placed.

Remarkable Instance of Medical Relief

Before we publish the certificates of the sufferers from the lungs of those who having recovered their health and expected by gratitude to make known their cure and consequent happiness in order that all may be assured that all we claim to be done will be done and that all who are in need of medical advice may find a physician with whom every confidence can be placed.

MARYSVILLE, June 24, 1866.

DR L J CZAPKAY San Francisco—Sir I have used the last of your medicine and do not think I shall need any more, as I feel very well except that I have not entirely got my strength yet but soon will with the appetite I have It is just three weeks you may recollect, since I called at your Institute, with my constitution, as I thought, broken entirely and never thought you would be able to cure me perfectly but thought you might be able to do something to ease the pain in my back and head, and strengthen my nerves so that I would not get excited and trouble at everything Now that you know what I expected, you may judge of my satisfaction at my complete recovery from those symptoms and the removal of those sores and blotches from my skin and the ulcers from my throat, and the entire purpose of those emissions, which you said were principally the cause of my sickness I can hardly tell you which is the greatest my joy or my surprise, for except not having fully gained my strength I feel as well as any man can feel.

I inclosed I send you twenty dollars over your charge, and think myself cheaply cured If you think anybody will be benefited, you may put this letter in the newspapers. Believe me gratefully yours, THOMAS HAYES.

Thankfulness is the incentive to gratitude.
